CLUB NEWS

Nine Three Creeks members attend DTA

Nine members of the Rotary Club of Three Creeks were in attendance at District Training Assembly on Saturday, April 14 at Forest Grove High School.

Dan Sockle, Jim Moody, Jim Selby, Scot Brantley, Lisa Abrahamsson, Audra Smith, Susanne Holmberg and Nelson Holmberg attended and participated in a number of training sessions specific to their positions on the club board or in committee chairs.

A number of ideas about under 40 membership, youth programs, peace builders, sustainable membership, club administration, and The Rotary Foundation were brought back, and we'll see some of them considered for addition into our club going forward.

Call for ideas: Service Projects

Service Projects Director Steve Pash and his committee have a couple of projects for April and May, but beyond that the Hands On Committee is seeking more ideas.

If you have suggestions for service projects, please share them with Steve or a member of his committee (Tina, Jessie, James, Jolene) when you have an opportunity.

Up Next: Club Strategic Planning Social

As we near our club's two-year anniversary, it feels like great timing for all of us (hopefully) to sit down together and discuss the club.

Club leaders are particularly interested in listening to any and all thoughts members have about the club and where we are after nearly two years together. There is also a high level of interest in discussing a club vision, which would help us target the direction of the club for the next year or so.

This meeting is intended to be a relaxed, fun opportunity to enjoy some time together, have something to drink and share conversation about our club. It's also a chance to ask questions, share concerns, comments and constructive criticisms so we can talk about it together.

The end goal is to create a unified vision from club members for the next year in the life of our club.

This is just one of the ideas to "try something new" that President Elect Nelson spoke about in the article he wrote in the last issue of Tributaries.
