Speaker Program: Aldea Children & Family Services on subject of Courage Village and Suicide Prevention

Courage Village is a suicide prevention and community engagement project by Aldea Children & Family Services. The goal is to engage with students and community members at large to minimize the stigma associated with asking for help. The program includes people/students taking pledges to ask for help and for allies in our community such as teachers, law enforcement and parents to pledge to be there for anyone who needs help, no questions asked.

Village Napa was created by concerned parents to offer community support for teenagers and parents who are struggling with anxiety, depression, and stress. Creating awareness and systematic change for our community.
