Special Guests David & Diane Reesor

David & Diane Reesor will share their travels to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, the site of the television series "The Most Dangerous Catch". They photographed the annual return of the eagles, feasting on their favorite food, the salmon.

David has been interested in photography ever since he received his Brownie Hawkeye camera for his tenth birthday. His parents encouraged his interest and obligingly allowed his darkroom setup in the basement of their home. In 1992 David won the "Best Canadian Amateur" photo of the year in the Canadian international underwater photo contest. In 2007 David co-authored a book "Predator – Life and Death in the African Bush" with African safari guide Mark Ross.

Diane found her interest later in life. Both consider themselves to be very fortunate to have photographed in many of the world's special places.

They both enjoy sharing their love of travel and photography.
